Tomorrow will be Dixon's biggest day, and unless unfavorable weather develops, the biggest crowd for many years will visit this city and enjoy the monster celebration, the arrangements for which have been completed. The weather man, however, does not hold out the most promising hopes, for he predicts thunder showers for tonight.

It is certain that every train into the city will bring crowds to Dixon during the morning, and all roads in this section of the state will lead to this city, and on them vehicles of all kinds will carry loads of pleasure seekers to the only large celebration in Northern Illinois.

Three big bands, motorcycle races, two baseball games, free vaudeville attractions and the only Eugene Go-det in two aeroplane flights will cer-

The vaudeville performers will arrive from Chicago on an evening train and will be here ready for work early in the morning, so that when the big celebration is started at 8:45 o'clock everything will be in readiness to carry the program without a hitch.

The committee has appointed its men to look after the various details and the visitors in Dixon will be assured of a "personally conducted" celebration. J. H. MORRIS DIED THURSDAY EVENING

FORMER GROCER SUCCEUMBS TO
INFIRMITIES OF OLD AGE AND BREAKING DOWN.

FUNERAL SATURDAY AFTERNOON

Services Will Be Held at the House at 3 o'clock on Saturday Afternoon.

James H. Morris, one of Dixon's most highly respected citizens, passed away at his home north of the city at 5 o'clock last evening after a two weeks' illness, during which the venerable gentleman was confined to his bed, death resulting from a general breaking down and infirmities of old age. The funeral services will be held at the house Saturday at 3 p. m., Rev. R. M. Crissman, pastor of the Presbyterian church, officiating and burial will be at Oakwood cemetery.

Mr. Morris who, had he lived until August 26 would have celebrated his golden wedding anniversary, was born at Morrisville, N. Y., March 8, 1829. He came west to Chicago in 1851 and in 1872 he moved to Dixon, which city has been his home since that time.

Shortly after coming to Dixon he identified himself with the grocery business and for years was a member of successful wholesale and retail grocery firms in this city. His life has been honestly spent, with an ever present regard for the rights and comforts of others, and many friends will mourn his passing and extend sympathy to his bereaved widow and only son, William.

PROGRESSIVES FROM LEE WANT SENATOR

WHITESIDE COUNTY SAYS THEY,
TOO, WILL NOMINATE
SENATOR.

Whiteside county progressives held a meeting at Prophetstown and have agreed to nominate a county, senatorial, congressional and state ticket.

They also suggested some names of Whiteside county people for various offices.

One of these is Evan L. Reed for state senator. Lee county progressives had understood that Mr. Reed was intending to become a candidate for the house and were somewhat surprised at the news item.

It has been generally understood in the 35th senatorial district that Lee county would present the candidate for senator on the progressive ticket in the primary next spring and Lee county progressives had supposed that this was agreeable to both Whiteside and DeKalb counties.

In fact, last fall at the convention held in this city, at which Lee county gave her delegates to Roy D. Hunt of DeKalb county, nominating him to the house, the DeKalb county delegates said that they would favor Lee county for the senatorial nomination in the spring of 1914 and would use all their endeavors to get DeKalb county to ratify the nomination of a Lee county man.

So far as Lee county progressives know, this matter still holds good.

At any rate Lee county will have the name of one of its prominent progressives on the ballot next spring for the nomination as state senator.

HEARING ON OBJECTIONS

RUMELY COMPANY SUED FOR $100,000

ROCKFORD MAN FILED A SUIT AGAINST CONCERN IN WIN-
NEBAGO COUNTY.

SAYS THEY CHARGED HIM WRONG

Claims That Through Their Error
They Charged Him With Embezzlement.

Rockford, July 3.—The Rumely Products Co. of Chicago, of which the Grand Detour Plow Works is a part, managed by Clarence Funk, formerly of the International Harvester company and the man who testified to the request made of the Harvester company for donation to the Lorimer campaign fund, was named as defendant in the $100,000 trespass suit filed by Geo. H. Meyers residing on the old Cutler farm south of the city, Ill., which is just the other side of Summons was served last night by Deputy Young on Frank H. Shepherd of 956 Grant avenue, general agent for the company.

In the suit filed by Mr. Meyers through his attorney, A. B. Knight, he states that his residence was formerly at Peoria where he was general agent of the Rumely company. The declaration sets forth further that it has been the custom at the end of each year for general agents to send in a detailed account of the goods on hand belonging to the company and he claims that at the close of last year he sent in such a report but that in some way when Mr. Funk took hold of the company and started to reorganize it the report was lost.

He further alleges that the company then got after him by letters through the mail, with his friends and business associates and with the rection from which they had been bonding company virtually alleging going, leaving the occupants crushed that he was guilty of embezzlement, on the road. Hart was able to go to He alleges that recently the Rumely a farmhouse nearby and phone for company found they were in error in help, but when he returned to the the matter and accordingly he is su- scene of the accident he found his ling for $100,000 damages to his name and business caused by the alleged persecution of the Chicago concern. WARREN CAUGHEY KILLED AND LEON HART INJURED WHEN AUTO TURNED OVER

TWO DIXON MEN VICTIMS OF AC-CIDENT NEAR CRESTON
LAST NIGHT.

RUNING AT HIGH SPEED

Accident Is Attributed to Terrific
Speed at Which They Were Running—Caughey Was Driving.

Warren Caughey of Dixon, the 24-year-old son of Robert Caughey, su- perintendent at the Grand Detour Plow shops, was killed and Leon Hart, also of Dixon, was badly injured when their speeding auto turned over into the ditch near Creston, Rochelle at 5:30 o'clock last evening.

Accident Due to Speed.

Mr. Hart, who is one of the partners in the Hart & Nettz garage in Dixon, was brought back to this city during the night by George Nettz. The body of Warren Caughey was taken to DeKalb. The accident was due entirely to speed, Mr. Caughey was driving the car, an Auburn. The two men were on their way to Auburn, Ind., via Chicago, and were running at a terrific rate of speed, considering the condition of the roads. The car, being driven between forty and fifty miles an hour, became unmanageable, although Caughey was an expert driver, skidded from one side of the road to the other for a moment, and then turned into a four-foot ditch, turning clear over and alighting again on all four wheels and headed the opposite direction from which they had been bonding company virtually alleging going, leaving the occupants crushed that he was guilty of embezzlement, on the road. Hart was able to go to He alleges that recently the Rumely a farmhouse nearby and phone for company found they were in error in help, but when he returned to the the matter and accordingly he is su- scene of the accident he found his ling for $100,000 damages to his name and business caused by the alleged persecution of the Chicago concern. The case is set for the October term of court.

Story of Accident.

Leon Hart was interviewed by a Telegraph reporter this morning and he detailed the story of the accident. His account is, briefly, that they left Dixon at about 4 p. m. for Auburn, Ind., with a demonstrator which they intended to leave at the Auburn factory. Warren Caughey was driving and was hitting up a high rate of speed. Mr. Hart objected to the fast driving and repeatedly told Caughey that he was running too fast, that the speed was dangerous, and as often as a half-dozen times he cautioned him to drive slower. The warnings were unheeded.

After they passed through Creston and only about three minutes before the fatal plunge, Hart was trying to read a Blue Book, and he told the driver then to slow down, but he could not read the directions, and that Caughey had laughingly insisted that he had driven much faster and had never lost a race.

Three and one-half miles east of Creston, while running over 40 miles an hour, the car commenced to skid. It swerved to the left side of the road, which was in bad condition, being soft from recent grading. Caughey, attempting to get back into the middle of the road, righted the car, but got over too far and the wheels jumped the ruts and got over on the right side of the road. At that instant the wheels struck the soft dirt, or something else, and the side motion of the car was so great that it whirled over sideways. There was a four-foot ditch at the roadside, and the machine went down into this. It turned over and righted itself, standing on all four wheels, but headed westward. Neither of the occupants was thrown clear of the car. Both had clung to their seats as there was no time to jump. Mr. Hart was brained about the shoulders, where he struck the ground first, and four ribs were broken. His body was covered with bruises and his physician says there is a possibility that he is injured internally, although he is sitting very well today.

Caught Under Wheel.

Warren Caughey was caught under the wheel when the car went over him, and was crushed in the middle by the rigid steering post and wheel. His face was cut in several places.

Hart Called Help.

Both men were left doubled up on the road together and Hart was the first to speak. He said, "Are you hurt, Bobbie?" (a nickname by which the boy was known. Caughey answered, "Yes, my back is broken."

There was a farmhouse about forty rods up the road and Hart ran to it and phoned to Malta for a physician. He was gone about fifteen minutes (the exertion was very painful to him in his crushed and bruised condition) and when he got back, Warren Caughey was dead.

Held Inquest.

The Malta physician, when he saw the conditions, called for the ambulance and coroner from DeKalb and the inquest over the remains of the unfortunate boy was held in a barn at the nearby farm. The verdict was accidental death. The body was then taken to DeKalb to be prepared for shipment. Mr. Hart phoned to Dixon and George Nettz made a fast run to DeKalb and brought Hart home. He will be confined to his bed for a few days, but his injuries are not necessarily dangerous, unless internal injuries develop.

Little Damage to Car.

The automobile was damaged very little, the glass front suffering the most.

Father on Wedding Trip.

Robert Caughey, superintendent of the Grand Detour Plow shops in Dixon and father of the dead boy, is away on his wedding trip and he and his bride were notified last night by wire at Auburn, New York. Warren's mother and brother are buried in Pittsburgh, and he may be taken there for burial.

A hungry burglar came along one night and tried to pry off a piece of it with his burglar tools and nitroglycerin, but failed ignominiously in his nefarious scheme.

Coast Defense for Chile.

A preliminary contract involving two million dollars has been signed between Chile and the Bethlehem Steel company, by which the latter is to furnish coast defense guns for the South American nation. This is looked upon as the precursor of larger orders, as Chile has an extensive seacoast and many harbors.

It is of interest that the contract was obtained in competition with the Armstrongs of England, the Krupps of Germany and the Creusots of France. The American company won both in price and in the quality of guns and shells to be supplied.—Philadelphia Inquirer.

In gratitude for relief from aches and pains of bad backs—from distressing kidney ills—thousands have publicly recommended Doan's Kidney Pills. Residents of Dixon who so testified years ago, now say the results were permanent. This testimony doubly proves the worth of Doan's Kidney Pills to Dixon kidney sufferers.

J. B. Clark, 722 Highland Ave., Dixon, Ill., says: "I had kidney complaint and backache and the doctors seemed unable to do anything for me. Finally I read of Doan's Kidney Pills and got a supply at Leake Bros. Co.'s Drug Store. This remedy cured me and I have not had any serious trouble since. Tamed by a Threat.

"I will," she exclaimed—"I will not live with you another day!"

"You'll leave me, will you?" he calmly asked.

"Yes, I will."

"When?"

"Now—this minute!"

"I wouldn't, if I were you."

"But I will, and I defy you to stop me!"

"Oh, I shan't try to stop you," he quietly replied. "I will simply report to the police that my wife has mysteriously disappeared. They'll want your description, and I will give it. You wear No. 8 shoes; you have an extra large mouth; your nose turns up at the end; eyes rather on the glint; voice like a—"

"Wretch, you wouldn't dare do that?" she screamed.

"I will."

They glared at each other for a moment in silence. Then it was plain to see who was the victor.

Brave Fire Ladders.

A local automobile factory has a well-drilled fire corps, composed of factory employees. The corps has a chance to demonstrate its ability when a neighboring factory building burned.

The captain of the factory fire company called his men together after they had grabbed what they thought were fire extinguishers. As he started to give the order to turn the extinguishers on the roof, where some sparks from the neighboring fire had fallen, it was discovered every man was armed with a gas tank like those used in automobiles.

New Find of an Old Race.

Fanning Island, in the mid-Pacific ocean, was recently purchased by a British Canadian syndicate for use as a coaling station, is the scene of remarkable discoveries, the news of which was brought by the steamship Makura, which arrived at Vancouver, B. C., on Dec. 13. Archaeological explorations have brought to view indications that the island was inhabited at some long-ago period by a race with peculiar skill in architecture. Excavations there have unearthed a large stone building, 50 feet wide and 200 feet long, in the construction of which no mortar was used, the stones used having been skillfully mortised together.

Near by this strange structure was found a tomb containing a human skeleton with a necklace made of the teeth of the sperm whale, and of other articles, including the skull of a dog.

CURIOSITY THAT MET REBUKE

Inquisitive Grocer More Than Met his Match When He Questioned the Small Girl.

The proposal to strengthen the secrecy of the ballot by voting by mail reminded Senator Williams of an election day story.

"Voting by mail," he said, "is a radical proposition that I'd hesitate to advocate without further study; but I do most heartily favor inviolable secrecy as regards the ballot."

"Even a harmless curiosity about the ballot is contemptible. A Salina grocer said to a little girl one election day:

"Who is your father going to vote for this morning, my dear?"

"I don't know," the little girl answered.

"Will he vote the Republican ticket?"

"I don't know."

"I wonder if he'll vote Democratic?"

"I don't know."

"He wouldn't vote Prohibition, surely?"

"I don't know."

"The grocer, as he tied up the little girl's package, sneered:

"Well, you don't know much, and that's a fact."

"You know less," the little girl answered, "or you wouldn't be asking so many questions!"

Smoke-Cured. To be strictly accurate, it was not a smoking compartment, but the youth was puffing away at a chubby briar, despite the pained expression on the old lady's face. By and by the old lady, who was the only other occupant of the carriage, began to get excited.

"Young man," she barked, as far as her coughing would permit her, "do you know that it's wrong to smoke?"

"Well," replied the lad, as he enveloped the old lady in a wreath of pungent smoke, "I use tobacco for my health."

"Health!" ejaculated the victim, in spluttering tones. "Nonsense! You never heard of any one being cured by smoking."

"Yes, I have," declared the youth, still puffing away like a furnace chimney; "that's the way they cure pigs."

"Then smoke away," cried the heroine of the story; "there may be hope for you yet."

Wane of Motherhood.

Ellen Key, writing in one of the magazines, deprecates the wane of motherhood, a constantly increasing disinclination to assume its responsibilities, she says, being everywhere apparent. The disinclination is not confined to any one class, she says, but the work-worn drudge and the idle creature of luxury are both averse to it.

The following from the Sterling Gazette will be of interest to many Dixon friends of Mrs. Mayme McKinney of Sterling, who is well known here and who is a sister of H. C. Casel of 414 Peoria avenue:

The will of the late John McKinney has been admitted to probate at Los Angeles, Cal. Mr. McKinney left an estate amounting to nearly $400,000. One of his bequests was of $50,000 to Mrs. Mayme McKinney of this city, widow of the late Thomas McKinney, a brother of the late John McKinney. To John McKinney of this city, namesake of the grantor, is also left a large sum, sufficient it is said, to complete his education and assist him during the early years of his life. The many friends of Mrs. McKinney and son will rejoice with them over their good fortune.

STORY OF FAMOUS CIVIL WAR FIGHT

Battle of Gettysburg Which Brought Credit to Both Blue and Gray.

TURNING POINT OF CONFLICT

Total Losses on Both Sides in Three Days' Fighting Over 50,000—Several Generals Killed and Wounded.

By EDWARD B. CLARK.

WASHINGTON.—It is possible, some people would say, that the Battle of Gettysburg changed utterly the course of American history. It was a great fight between armies of Americans, for probably fully ninety per cent of the men who fought on the two sides were born natives to the American soil. The brave shown at Gettysburg was of the order which Americans have shown on every field and which reflects credit upon the hardy and heroic ancestry of the men engaged, no matter from what race they may have sprung.

At Gettysburg there was nothing to choose between the valor of the North and the South. The South lost the fight, but it lost it honorably and with the prestige of its soldiery undimmed. The charges made on that field have gone down into history as assaults made under conditions which every man felt might mean death at the end. The defenses made at Gettysburg were of the kind which it takes iron in the blood to make perfect. At Gettysburg Northerners and Southerners replenished their store of respect for their antagonists. The battle marked the high tide of the war between the states. After it the South largely was on the defensive, but its defense was maintained with fortitude and in the face of privations which could not chill the blood of men fighting for what they thought was the right.

The Northern armies were persistent in their attacks through the campaigns which after a few months were started against the objective point, Richmond. Brave men here and brave men there, and after the end came it was the qualities which keep company with bravery which made the soldiers of the North and South so ready to forget and to forgive and to work again for the good of a common country.

The great battle of Chancellorsville was fought not long before the opposing Union and Confederate forces met on the field of Gettysburg. Chancellorsville was a Confederate victory. The Southern government believed that the victory should be followed up by an invasion of the North for, according to its reasoning, if an important engagement could be won upon

Maj. Gen. George G. Meade.

Northern soil the chances of foreign intervention or at least foreign aid to the Southern cause, would be forthcoming.

General Robert E. Lee late in the spring of 1863, made his preparations to conduct his campaign Northward into the state of Pennsylvania. He had under his command three corps. General James Longstreet commanding the First, General Richard S. Ewell commanding the Second, and General A. P. Hill commanding the Third. In the Union army which afterward confronted Lee at Gettysburg, there were seven corps, but the number of men in each was much less than that in a Confederate corps, the military composition of each being different. The Union corps commanders who under Meade were at Gettysburg, were Generals John F. Reynolds, W. S. Hancock, Daniel E. Sickles, George Sykes, John Sedgwick, O. O. Howard and H. W. Slocum.

Forces Almost Evenly Matched.
It never has been determined beyond the point of all dispute just how many men were engaged on each side in the battle of Gettysburg. It is known that the armies were very nearly equal in strength, the probabilities being that the Confederate force was a few thousand men stronger than the Union force, a difference which was balanced perhaps by the fact that the Union armies at Gettysburg were fighting in defense of their land from invasion, a condition which military men say always adds a subtle something to the fighting quality which is in any man. Some authorities have said that there were 100,000 men in the Confederate forces at Gettysburg to be confronted by 90,000 Union troops. Another authority says that the Confederate force was 84,000 and the Union force 80,000. As it was the armies were pretty nearly equally divided in strength.

In June, 1863, General Robert E. Lee began to move northward. Lee concentrated his army at Winchester, Va., and then started for the Potomac river, which he crossed to reach the state of Maryland. He fully expected to be followed by General Hooker's army and so General Stuart with a large force of cavalry was ordered by Lee to keep in front of Hooker's army and to check his pursuit of the Confederates if it was attempted.

Late in June the Confederate force reached Hagerstown, in the state of Maryland. It was General Lee's intention to strike Harrisburg, Pa., which was a great railroad center and a city where Union armies were recruited and from which all kinds of supplies were sent out to the soldiers in the field. While the Southern commander was on his way with a large part of his force to the Pennsylvania capital another part of his command was ordered to make its way into the Susquehanna Valley through the town of Gettysburg and then to turn in its course after destroying railroads and gathering in supplies, and to meet the Confederate commander with the main army at Harrisburg.

It was General Jubal A. Early of General Lee's command, who reached Gettysburg after a long hard march on June 26. From there he went to the town of York and from thence to Wrightsville. At this place he was ordered by General Lee to retrace his steps and to bring his detachment back to a camp near Gettysburg.

When Early obeyed Lee's order and had reached a point near Gettysburg he found the entire Southern force was camped within easy striking distance of the now historic town.

In the meantime things were happening elsewhere. General Hooker in command of the Union army which had been depleted at Chancellorsville, had succeeded in out-maneuvering General Stuart in command of Lee's cavalry, had got around Stuart's command in a way to prevent the Southern general from forming a junction with the forces of his chief commander. Lee gave over the proposed movement on Harrisburg when he heard of Hooker's approach and brought the different parts of his army together.

Four days before the Gettysburg fight began General Hooker resigned as commander of the Union army. Hooker and General Hancock disagreed upon a matter concerning which strategists today say that General Hooker was right. Three days before the battle began, that is, June 28, 1863, General George Gordon Meade was named as General Hooker's successor in charge of the Northern army. General Meade at once went into the field and established his headquarters at a point ten or twelve miles south of the town of Gettysburg.

Armies Meet at Gettysburg.

It seems that General Lee on hearing that Stuart had not succeeded in checking the Union army's advance had made up his mind to turn southward to meet the force of Hooker, or as it turned out the force of Meade. Lee with his force had advanced north beyond Gettysburg, while Meade with his force was south of the town. The fields near the Pennsylvania village had not been picked as a place of battle, but there it was that the two great armies came together and for three days struggled for the mastery.

On the last day of June, the day before the real battle of Gettysburg began, General Reynolds, a corps commander of the Union army, went forward to feel out the enemy. He reached Gettysburg by nightfall. His corps, the First, together with the Third and the Eleventh Infantry Corps with a division of cavalry, composed the Union army's left wing.

The Fifth Army Corps was sent to Hanover, southeast of Gettysburg, and the Twelfth Corps was immediately south of Gettysburg at a distance of eight or nine miles. This was on June 30, and the Union forces were fairly well separated, but they were converging and Gettysburg was their objective.

General Reynolds of the Union forces arrived at Gettysburg early on the morning of July 1. He dispatched a courier to Meade saying that the high ground above Gettysburg was the proper place to meet the enemy. Not long after this message was sent to Meade General Reynolds who dispatched it, was killed. He was on horseback near a patch of woods with his force confronting a large detachment of Confederate troops which was coming toward them. These troops of the enemy were dispersed by the Union batteries and Reynolds was watching the successful solid shot and shrapnel onset when a bullet struck him in the head killing him instantly.

General Abner Doubleday succeeded Reynolds in command of the troops at that point of the field. A brigade of Confederates, a Mississippi organization, charged the Union forces, broke their organization and succeeded in making prisoners of a large part of a New York regiment. Later these men were recaptured and the Mississippi brigade was driven back, a portion of it surrendering. In the fight on the first day at this point of the field or near it, one Union regiment, the 151st Pennsylvania, lost in killed and wounded 337 men out of a total of 446 in a little more than a quarter of an hour's fight.

General Doubleday fell back to Seminary Ridge and extended his line. The forces employed against him here were greater than his own, and after hard fighting Seminary Ridge was given up. The first day's battle was in effect and in truth a victory for the Southern arms. On the night of July 1 General Hancock arrived and succeeded in rallying the Union forces and putting new heart into the men. General Meade on that night ordered the entire army to Gettysburg.

Victory Not Followed Up.

For some reason or other perhaps unknown to this day, what was virtually a Confederate victory on the first of July was not followed up by General Lee early on the next morning. General Meade therefore succeeded in strengthening his lines and in preparing for the greater conflict. One end of the Union line was some distance east of Cemetery Hill on Rock Creek, another end was at Round Top something more than two miles beyond Cemetery Hill to the south. The Confederate line confronting it was somewhat longer.

It is impossible in a brief sketch of this battle to give the names of the brigade and the regimental commanders and the names of the regiments which were engaged on both sides in this great battle. Meade, Hancock, Howard, Slocum and Sickles with their men were confronting Lee, Longstreet, Hill, Ewell and the other great commanders of the South with their men. The line of battle with the spaces in between the different commands was nearly ten miles. It was the Confederate general's intention to attack at the extreme right and left and at the center simultaneously. It was to be General Longstreet's duty to turn the left flank of the Union army and to "break it." Longstreet's intended movement was discovered in time to have it met valiantly. The battle of the second day really began with Longstreet's advance. The Southern general did not succeed in the plan which he had formed to get by Big Round Top and to attack the Third Corps from a position of vantage in the rear. General Sickles defended Round Top and Longstreet could not take it.

When one visits the battlefield of Gettysburg he can trace the course of battle of the second day where it raged at Round Top, Peach Orchard, Cemetery Hill, Culp's Hill, and what is known as The Devil's Den. The tide of battle ebbed and flowed. Little Round Top was saved from capture by the timely arrival of a brigade commanded by General Weed that dragged the guns of a United States regular battery up to the summit by hand.

At the end of the second day's fight it was found that the Southern army had failed to break the left flank of the opposing forces, that it had failed to capture Round Top and that the right flank of the Northern army, although vigorously attacked, had not been broken. There was a tremendous loss of life on both sides, and while in general the day had gone favorably to the Northern cause Gettysburg was still a drawn battle, which has gone into history as one of the most heroic assaults of all time. It was forlorn hope but it was grasped and the men of George Edward Pickett, Confederate soldiers, went loyally and with full hearts to their death across a shrapnel and rifle swept field.

When the third day's fighting opened it began with an artillery duel, hundreds of guns belching forth shot and death from the batteries of both contending forces. It is said that this was the greatest duel engaged in by field pieces during the four years of the war between the states.

The Union guns at one time ceased firing, and it is said that the southern Charge of Gen. Pickett.

It was on July 3, the third and last day of the great battle of Gettysburg that Pickett's men made their charge

THE THRIFT ZONE

(Special Lake Excursion by Steamer Illinois, Friday, July 11th)
WITHIN A RADIUS of 400 miles of Chicago there are three-fifths (23 billion of the 40 billion dollars) of the Nation's Farm Property. The six states within this radius comprise the Thrift Zone of America's farming, having the smallest percentage of farmers earning less than $1,000 per year.

THE LANDS OF THE SWIGART TRACT are in the inner circle of the Thrift Zone being only 170 miles from the heart of it. They have outstripped most lands in the percentage of increase in value in the past 10 years and will again double and triple in value before the next census.

MEN WHO OBTAIN the land now will get first hold on the opportunities in this district. There are no lands so good for so little money so near Chicago. To buy them is not speculation. It is an investment in which nothing can stop the advance in value. The demand for land here at the population center of the Nation guarantees rapid acquisition by agriculturists of every acre. Every acre of available ground must be tilled to help provision our increasing millions. The time seems approaching when only intensive cultivation will suffice to feed the people. You will receive the increase in value incident to the building up and development of this new district on all sides of your land.

NOWHERE does land yield a wider diversity of crops than in the Swigart tract. Crops of potatoes on 5 to 8 acre patches have often in one season paid for the cost of 40 acres. The story of the Swigart Tract is one of development. Come and share in this upbuilding where you will find welcoming hands and pleasant living conditions, where the soil is good and nature speeds you on the road to competency and comfort.

WITHIN GRASP of most any man earning wages is this opportunity in Michigan. Practically no chance is left in other North Central States unless you have a barrel of money; but in the Swigart Tract you can buy land for $10 to $35 per acre and an average of $17 per acre; and the terms are as low as $10 to $50 down and $5 to $10 per month on 40 acres. Think of the market leverage of these lands located within such a short distance of Chicago by both lake and rail.

The railroad time on the Burlington, which passes through West Brooklyn, changed on Monday and now the morning passenger arrives ten minutes earlier and the evening passenger ten minutes later than before. The train in the a. m., is at 7:38 and in the p. m. arrives at 7:34. This does not guarantee that they will be here on those very hours however for past history extending 3 or 4 years back finds a very poor record for arrivals, especially in the evenings in winter.

F. D. Gehant has started the erection of his new barn on the premises he will occupy for his future home in the new addition to West Brooklyn, and with this work the signal is given for the starting of a greater West Brooklyn, at least it is a start which will give her more room to grow. Mr. Gehant has chosen four lots extending upon the West side of Second street facing the east and already he has had several applicants

LOOK AT THE ASSETS of this tract in Mason, Manistee, Lake and Wexford Counties; the water supply, plentiful rainfall; gently-rolling, well drained lands; mild, even climate, good roads, schools, and an excellent class of settlers; six railroads, new towns, and Ludington and Manistee, with 30,000 consumers. Home and land seekers, especially farmers, are coming from all parts of the United States. The liberal contract that goes with these lands adds to the inducements. Every purchase is doubly secured, because after a part is paid, if you die, the farm will be deeded to your family free.

OF INTEREST to every one who is looking for better profits, broader opportunities and a good land opportunity is a BOOKLET about the Swigart Tract of more than 50,000 acres and its central location in Michigan's Fruit Belt. You won't be satisfied until you see this splendid country, and when you do take the short trip you will find that there are no exaggerated statements in the literature. A large map is also yours—free for the asking. Write or call for them.

Fire's Out
Then comes the matter of insurance. You get out your policy and note the company in which you are insured. Certain questions should not arise to worry you at such a time. You should not be worried by the question of whether you are insured in a company that dickers and delays over settlements. You should not be worried over the question of whether the company can pay the claim, nor whether you have had enough protection to cover your loss. To be insured in the companies represented by Henry F. and Oliver L. Gehant eliminates the first of these two worries. By consultation with our agency before taking out your policy, we will tell you the proper proportion of insurance to carry, and that eliminates the third. The thing to do before the fire, in order to eliminate worry, is to be insured in the right kind of company. We represent the right kind of companies. Henry F. and Oliver L. Gehant.

For the first time in the history of the two teams during recent years the locals were defeated by the Shabbona base ball team in a game of the national pastime. The trouble arose chiefly through our old reliable second base man having an off day and committing three costly errors. The other players were hardly up to snuff either and it must have been the day's terrible heat which caused the general off day's work throughout the nine. The following box score tells of the game:

commander thought they had been silenced, and then it was that Longstreet's men made an assault and Pickett's men made their charge. The former general's objective was Big Round Top, but his forces were driven back. Pickett formed his division in brigade columns and they moved directly across the fields over flat ground. They had no cover and they had no sooner come into effective range than they were met by such a storm of shot as never before swept over a field of battle.

They went on and on, and on closing in their depleted ranks and moving steadily forward to their death. Those of Pickett's men who reached their destination had a short hand-to-hand encounter with the northern soldiers. It was soon over and Pickett's charge, glorious for all time in history, was a failure in that which it attempted to do, but was a success as helping to show the heroism of American soldiers.

The losses at Gettysburg on both sides were enormous. The Union army lost Generals Zook, Farnsworth, Weed and Reynolds, killed; while Graham, Barnes, Gibbon, Warren, Doubleday, Barlow, Sickles, Butterfield and Hancock were wounded. The total casualties killed, wounded, captured or missing on the Union side numbered nearly 24,000 men. On the Confederate side Generals Semmes, Pender, Garnet, Armistead, and Barksdale were killed, and Generals Kemper, Kimball, Hood, Heth, Johnson and Trimble were wounded. The entire Confederate loss is estimated to have been nearly 30,000 men.

The third day's fight at Gettysburg was a victory for northern arms, but it was a hard won fight and the conflict reflects lusty today upon the north and the south. Lee led his army back southward, later to confront Grant in the campaigns which finally ended at Appomattox.

Police Powers to a Nurse.
Because Miss Rupp of Philadelphia met with discourteous treatment at some of the homes at which she called as a nurse, the city council passed an ordinance giving her all the powers of a policeman, and she was sworn in a few days ago.

Before she was given authority to carry a mace and pistol and make arrests she was required to make oath and that she had not engaged in dueling since 1881 and to promise not to take part in duels either as principal or second. The oath as to duels is required by the state legislature of all public officers from governor down.

TWO NEW LAWS
AFFECT ALL PEOPLE

STORAGE OF GASOLINE AND THE SALE OF FIREARMS ARE SUBJECTS OF LAWS.

Local officers have received from Acting State Fire Marshal Morgaridge copies of two bulletins recently issued by the department, which will be of interest to all citizens, calling attention to two laws enacted by the general assembly, relating to the sale of gasoline and firearms.

Under the new laws it will be illegal to store gasoline in any receptacle that is not painted red and does not bear the word "Gasoline" printed in letters at least one-half inch high. The same law makes it a misdemeanor if any merchant delivers gasoline to any customer in any other kind of a receptacle.

The other act prohibits the sale of, or giving away of any toy pistol that will shoot blank cartridges, and it is made an offense to find such in one's possession.

GAS STOVE EXPLODED
BURNS NOT SERIOUS

MRS. Z. W. MOSS RECEIVED PAINFUL INJURY THIS MORNING.

Mrs. Z. W. Moss was painfully burned about the face this morning, when escaping gas in the oven at her home exploded as she was leaning over looking into it and attempting to light the burner. Several times during the morning the oven burner had gone out, and on several occasions Mrs. Moss had re-lighted it, with no apparent danger.

However, on discovering the last time that the gas was out, Mrs. Moss opened the oven door and lighted a match to re-light the burner. The oven was full of gas and as the unfortunate lady struck the match the fluid exploded into her face, inflicting painful but not serious burns.

A physician was summoned immediately and his assurance that Mrs. Moss' burns are not serious in any way and that her eyes will not be affected, will be most welcome news to her many friends.

Miss Abbott of Sioux City, who has been the guest of Miss Clymer of this city, returned last evening to her home, accompanied by Miss Julia. The two were classmates at college.

Mrs. Fay L. Perkins and daughter of Pasadena, Cal., and Mrs. M. M. Trumbauer of Polo were guests at the Owen Clymer home Wednesday.

At the suffrage luncheon in New York a woman electrician the other day showed Mrs. O. H. P. Belmont a model of a cradle that rocks by electricity.
Mrs. Belmont, after examining the model with interest, smiled and said: "This invention is of great value to woman—it leaves both her hands free for the carrying of suffrage banners and the distribution of suffrage literature."

AILING WOMEN OF MIDDLE AGE

Mrs. Hilbert Tells of Her Distressing Symptoms During Change of Life and How She Found Relief.

Fleetwood, Pa.—"During the Change of Life I was hardly able to be around at all. I always had a headache and I was so dizzy and nervous that I had no rest at night. The flashes of heat were so bad sometimes that I did not know what to do."

"One day a friend advised me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and it made me a strong well woman. I am very thankful that I followed my friend's advice and I shall recommend it as long as I live. Before I took the Compound I was always sickly and now I have not had medicine from a doctor for years. You may publish my letter."—Mrs. EDWARD B. HILBERT, Fleetwood, Pa.

Such warning symptoms as sense of suffocation, hot flashes, headaches, backaches, dread of impending evil, timidity, sounds in the ears, palpitation of the heart, sparks before the eyes, irregularities, constipation, variable appetite, weakness and inquietude, and dizziness, are promptly heeded by intelligent women who are approaching the period in life when woman's great change may be expected.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound invigorates and strengthens the female organism and builds up the weakened nervous system. It has carried many women safely through this crisis.

Difference in Bones.
A wealthy man, well known for his extreme stinginess, drove up hurriedly in his carriage to the door of a celebrated doctor. He was in a state of acute discomfort and fear, from the simple fact that at the moment a piece of fish bone was sticking somewhere in the region of his throat. The doctor removed the dangerous obstacle, and the gentleman breathed freely.

"Thank you, doctor!" he exclaimed, much relieved. "I'll never eat salmon again—never! And with what ease you removed it! A mere minute's operation, was it not? How much—a—what is your fee?"

"Half a guinea," replied the doctor. "Half a guinea!" exclaimed the man. "For half a minute's work? Impossible!"

"But—consider for a moment," said the doctor. "It's a salmon bone!"

"What has that to do with it?"

"Oh, a great deal," replied the doctor. "Had it been halibut or fresh haddock, I should have charged less—perhaps five shillings. For codfish or eels, two-and-six would have been ample payment. Mackerel, two shillings. While a red herring bone I might even have removed free of charge. But salmon! Well, really sir, one has to pay for these luxuries." And his patient paid.—London Telegraph.

Names Babies by Lottery.
Choosing a name for a new baby is always a matter of anxious consideration; but in certain lands the anxiety has been minimized by the laying down of the rules to guide the choice.

The Mohammedans, for example, write five names on slips of paper and place them in the Koran. One slip is drawn out, and the name written thereon is bestowed upon the baby. With the Egyptians three lighted candles are taken and named—one name always being of Biblical character—and the candle which burns the longest determines the child's name. The Hindus allow the mother to name a baby when it is twelve days old, but if the father does not like the chosen name he selects another. Then the two names are written on slips of paper and held over a lighted lamp, that which burns the brighter being the name finally adopted.

In China girl babies are considered not worth naming and are simply numbered in order of birth. Chinese boys are named until they are twenty, when they receive fresh names specially chosen by their fathers.

Lawrence, Mass., July 1.—Twelve boys under ten years of age were drowned when a wooden bridge connecting the municipal bathhouse with the bank of the Merrimack river collapsed. It is possible that more were drowned.

The boys, ranging from nine to fifteen years, were waiting for the bathhouse keeper to open the door. No one knows how many there were in the party, but it is thought that forty is a conservative estimate. The boys were jumping up and down as they shouted for admission, when the supports sank and the walk extension dropped like a trap door.

Some Swim to Safety.

There is a swift current at this point, drawn by the falls, a quarter of a mile below. Many of the boys could not swim. Witnesses on the river bank say that all disappeared in a flash, but a moment later there was a struggling mass on the surface. The stronger ones, who could swim, struck out bravely for the bathhouse and a score saved themselves. Their cries brought aid and several others were pulled ashore. Five unconscious forms were brought from the water and two of these were finally resuscitated. Efforts to restore the others were futile. It was thought at first that only three drowned and it was not until two hours later that the probable loss of life was realized. A boy in the crowd of distracted persons on shore, missing his chum, set up a cry: "I don't see Rolfe. He must be drowned."

Boats and grappling irons were then brought and the river bed was dragged. When the work ceased late at night 12 bodies had been recovered.

HEAT DEATH TOLL GROWS

Thirty-Two Persons Perish in Chicago Temperature 98.6.

Chicago, July 1.—With thirty-two deaths and 160 prostrations on the day's list of heat victims, the climax of the torrid wave was reached at four o'clock, when the officially recorded temperature was 98.6.

The greatest suffering was in the crowded tenement districts, where hundreds of babies gasped for a breath of air, and scores were carried to hospitals and dispensaries in a state of extreme prostration.

"No real end of the torrid spell is in sight at present," says Forecaster Cox. "The interior of the country is one vast furnace, reports from Indiana, Tennessee, Missouri and Indiana showing an approach to 100 degrees nearly everywhere."

Getting Sentence Correct.

Former Judge Peter S. Grosscup is responsible for this one, related at a dinner recently:

"Noah Webster had just completed his dictionary. After his strenuous labors he sought relaxation in a flirtation with his wife's housemaid. This affair of the heart was conducted under most trying circumstances to Noah, for Mrs. Webster was constantly snooping about the house, so it was not to be wondered at that one day when Noah and the pretty servant were exchanging kisses, in walked Mrs. Webster.

"Why, Noah, I am surprised!" she exclaimed.

"The great lexicographer was startled, but his dignity did not desert him.

"Looking at his wife with a frown of disapproval, he said:

"My dear, you certainly merit a rebuke. Here you are, the wife of a dictionary maker, and yet when you entered the room just a moment ago you exclaimed, 'I am surprised.' My dear, I am the one who is surprised—you are astonished!"

War.

"President Taft discussed gloomily the other day," said a Washingtonian, "the terrible Turkish war. He pointed out the awful horrors of the cholera. He said that war was an ugly, vile thing, and he would always regret the defeat of his arbitration plans.

"He said that, when he heard any talk about heroism or self-sacrifice in war, he always thought about old Colonel Gore.

"Colonel Gore, a young lady once cried, 'they tell me that in one of your battles an enemy died to save your life. Is that true?"

"Quite true, ma'am," said the colonel, stroking his great military mustache.

"Oh, how beautiful! How noble! Tell me how it happened, won't you?" said the young lady.

"Well, ma'am," said the colonel, "it happened like this. The enemy had his gun pressed against my temples, and I ran my bayonet through his stomach."

At the present time, when scientific business methods make every fraction of a minute valuable, the value of the present system has become invaluable; so much so that a "time" connection is indispensable in nearly every place of business, as the variation of one minute frequently costs hundreds and sometimes thousands of dollars.

At each office throughout the United States where time service is established there is a master clock installed for the purpose of transmitting hourly signals to the subsidiary clocks to keep them in perfect time.

GUIDED BY THE STARS

HOW TIME IS REGULATED IN THE UNITED STATES.

Matter of Extreme Importance Has Been Brought to an Exact Science by Wise Men in Government Employ.

Few people understand how time is accurately obtained and distributed throughout the country, says the Charleston News and Courier.

Every clear night the astronomers at the United States observatory, Washington, D. C., observe the transit of certain stars which are due to cross the meridian at a known time.

The exact instant of their transit is recorded electrically by means of a chronograph, which also records the seconds from a sidereal clock. The difference between the time of the sidereal clock and the time the stars cross shows the error of the clock.

The time signals sent out each day are wholly automatic, and consist of a series of short marks produced on an open telegraphic circuit by the beats of a transmitting clock located in the observatory. The wires of the Western Union Telegraph company are used for the dissemination of these signals at noon (75th meridian) each day, for an interval of three and five minutes immediately preceding and ending exactly at noon.

For the country east of the Rocky mountains the signals are sent from the United States observatory, Washington, and for the country west of the Rocky mountains the signals are sent from the United States observatory at Mare Island navy yard, California. The entire series of signals sent from both of the observatories are graphically shown as they appear on a chronograph tape. The electric connections of the transmitting clock sending these signals are such as to omit certain seconds of each minute, as shown by the breaks in the record.

These enable any one who is listening to a telegraph instrument at any office that is cut into the circuit during the transmission of the signals to recognize the middle and beginning of each minute. At the fifty-ninth minute there is an interval of ten seconds, which is followed by the final noon signal.

At each office throughout the United States where time service is established there is a master clock installed for the purpose of transmitting hourly signals to the subsidiary clocks to keep them in perfect time.

WISDOM IN PURCHASING

will save you many idle regrets in the future. Buy at a reputable house and you will save money while getting the best quality procurable. Solid brass bedsteads are scarce, nine-tenths of those so called are simply iron washed over, or very thinly coated. Tinsel is not brass, nor will it wear like it. We have a fine line of ornamental Brass Bedsteads which will please particular buyers.
